Kubota CHL/NHL Top Prospects Game

The Kubota CHL/NHL Top Prospects Game showcases NHL Draft eligible talent from across the Ontario Hockey League, Quebec Major Junior Hockey League, and Western Hockey League.

Forty player participants have been divided into Team Red, captained by Kingston Frontenacs centre Shane Wright, the projected first-overall selection in the 2022 NHL Draft, opposite Moose Jaw Warriors defenceman Denton Mateychuk, captain of Team White and NHL Central Scouting's No. 9 ranked North American skater.

Joining Wright in the leadership group for Team Red are alternate captains Maveric Lamoureux (Drummondville Voltigeurs) and Ty Nelson (North Bay Battalion), while serving as alternate captains with Team White under Mateychuk are Jake Karabela (Guelph Storm) and Tristan Luneau (Gatineau Olympiques).

Since its reintroduction as the CHL/NHL Top Prospects Game in 1996, the event has featured 15 players who were later selected first overall in the NHL Draft, including Alexis Lafreniere (2020), Nico Hischier (2017), Connor McDavid (2015), Aaron Ekblad (2014), Nathan MacKinnon (2013), Ryan Nugent-Hopkins (2011), Taylor Hall (2010), John Tavares (2009), Steven Stamkos (2008), Patrick Kane (2007), Marc-Andre Fleury (2003), Rick Nash (2002), Vincent Lecavalier (1998), Joe Thornton (1997), and Chris Phillips (1996).

In all, more than 350 participants from the CHL/NHL Top Prospects Game have been chosen in the opening round of the NHL Draft. Most recently, Lafreniere (Rimouski Oceanic/New York Rangers) and Byfield (Sudbury Wolves/Los Angeles Kings) joined that list after being selected first and second overall in the 2020 NHL Draft after serving as captains at the 2020 Kubota CHL/NHL Top Prospects Game.
